Welcome

MORGAN & DAN MCCARTY

Our home base in western Colorado has changed immensely the past few years. While many areas have experienced extreme drought during 2021, those of us in western Colorado have been in a constant state of drought since as early as 2012. 2020 and 2021 have both been record-breaking drought years not only for lack of precipitation, but lack of snowpack and corresponding river flow as well.

Additionally, the "great COVID-19 land rush of 2020" impacted our area and many of our long-term leases were sold. Continued dry conditions paired with land availability in our immediate area has led us to make the difficult decision to dramatically reduce our cow numbers and adjust our business model.

Over the years, we have put an incredible amount of selection pressure on raising functional cattle that work well in almost any environment. Selecting sound, maternal and easy-fleshing females has always been important to our program. Producing stout, balanced bulls that can get the job done on the high desert in western Colorado, southern Utah and surrounding states is what pays the bills around here.

Sure, we have produced and sold some excellent females over the years, but our No. 1 goal was always to make a female that will raise a whopper of a bull calf that can make a positive impact on the beef industry - and that's exactly what these females we are offering can do.

Calving season has traditionally started in late January and both cows and heifers must calve unassisted with little or no help. We have never calved in a barn and rely on the cow to do her job of getting her calf up and nursing, even on bitter cold nights in sub-zero weather.

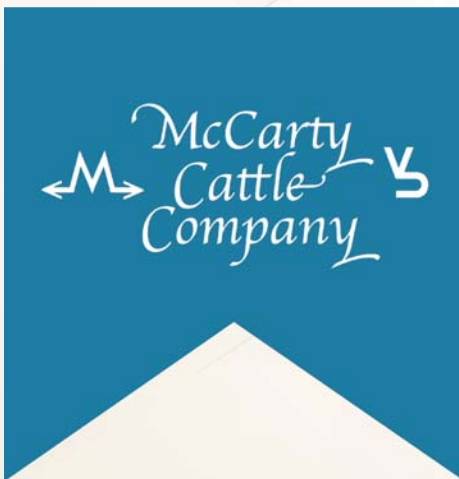

These cattle have summered on both irrigated and mountain pastures and are fed native hay in the winter. Protein supplement is offered only when the conditions require it. These cattle are not pampered and must earn their keep. Since we've been forced to cut cow numbers since 2012 because of continued drought, the older cows in the offering are still here because they excelled in getting the job done.

The cattle in the offering with "155" in the name or a 155 brand come out of our cooperator herd from Tiana Fiou at the Fiou Ranch. These cattle run right along side the McCarty females and have been managed together for nearly 10 years. Many of these cattle have been bred up from a purebred Angus herd.

We aren't leaving the business that we both love nor are we leaving the Gelbvieh breed. We're actually quite bullish on where this industry is headed in the next couple years and think there are tremendous opportunities ahead. We are keeping a few around and plan to rebuild when conditions allow, however the cattle in this offering represent the top end of the herd and we think this is a fantastic opportunity for fellow Gelbvieh and Balancer breeders.

Thank you for your interest in our program. We hope you appreciate the quality of this offering and look forward to visiting with you.

We are fairly certain that there aren't too many cows in the breed as stout and naturally thick as 8015F. She certainly acquired the muscle and mass of her sire, Cornhusker Red and the style and udder of her great 5x Dam of Merit dam, Z015 (or Champion Bob as we called her). If you're a numbers person, check out her EPDs - They're pretty good, too! If you are looking for a powerhouse cow that packs a whole lot of substance and is going to raise top notch bulls to sell, 8015F is your gal. She is selling as a 3-in-1 with her April heifer calf sired by JRI Pendleton 253F4 at her side. You can view the pair together when videos are posted online.
